Foreword

Knowledge is a poison which cures in large quantities, and kills in small.

Mór Jókai

After 11 issues in which were published 101 articles by authors from 11 countries, Geographica Pannonica is entering the period of enhanced (more pronounced) tendencies towards European scientific values.

Mission of our journal is to continue with the contributions aimed at scientific development, and to participate in the new scientific achievements. We believe that, as the African proverb indicates that “Baobab tree cannot be encircled by one man”, science is one of the strongest ties which unifies people, and we hope that we will be also able to provide our modest contribution in this regard.

Our vision is that GP finds its place on the list of journals with impact factor in the coming three-year period, and to achieve this we have introduced and will continue to introduce new standards.

GP will have two issues in this year, and for 2009 we plan four. Editorial Board is composed of 9 acknowledged scientists from 6 countries. Till now we have engaged 47 scientists from 20 countries worldwide as reviewers for articles in our journal. From this issue onwards, GP will be published also in the electronic format, available on the Internet.

With strong will to realise our mission and vision, we would like to sincerely thank our reviewers on outstanding cooperation, and would like to invite all interested authors to take part in achievement of these goals.
